McGILL PULLS WITH TEAM FOR WIN SATURDAY

Keen Interest Being Taken In Coming Game.

WILL BE STRUGGLE.

Varsity Supporters Already Talking Of Location For Play-Off.

With the whole of McGill pulling for a win on Saturday against Varsity, interest in the coming crucial struggle for Intercollegiate honors on the gridiron is reaching fever heat, and tends to surpass in keenness anything that has been shown around the College since the exciting days of 1914, and when the two squads face one another next Saturday at the Percival Memorial Stadium it will be before one of the biggest crowds that has ever witnessed an Intercollegiate tussle in Montreal.

Since its defeat by Varsity two weeks ago in the Blue and White lair the McGill squad, under the careful tuition of Coach Shaughnessy, has shown a remarkable improvement in form, and greatly strengthened by the addition of Don Baillie, Cope and Dick Carroll to the line-up, has an excellent chance of capturing the battle and thus tying the Toronto fourteen and forcing a play-off for titular honors. While Shag and his proteges have little to say regarding the chances of the Red and White in the coming match, the supporters of the team are generally agreed that the outlook is bright and that, providing Varsity wins from Queen's the week following, the two teams will finish the regular schedule neck and neck.

Varsity supporters are likewise confident of the outcome, and will be down in a strong contingent to root for the Blue and White. Though hoping for a win, the supporters of the Toronto squad are already discussing the location of a probable play-off, and express the opinion that, should Shaughnessy's players come out on top on Saturday, the play-off should not be held at Ottawa, which is regarded as strongly for McGill, but suggests Kingston as the logical centre. McGill enthusiasts are not worrying about the grounds for the play-off, but are confining their whole attention to the first matter in hand, namely, the defeat of the speedy Varsity aggregation.

Returning to the practice field yesterday afternoon after a day's rest, Shag put the team through one of the most strenuous scrimmages yet held at the Stadium this season, and that the wearers of the Red and White showed pep was clearly evident to the favored sport scribes and club officials who witnessed the work-out from the side-lines. The way the men went at their work and the manner in which they bucked through, first the third team, and later Marsh Kern's intermediates, demonstrated that the squad, barring untoward misfortune, will take the chalked field on Saturday in excellent condition and ready to put up the struggle of their lives.

F. T. SMOKER RATHER LATE

To Be Held In Union On the 10th.

Arrangements have been completed with the officials of the Union for a smoker to be held by the Eastern Townships Club in the Union on Wednesday, the 10th.

Full details will be announced later, but it is already certain that a good orchestra will be in attendance, that refreshments will be of a high quality and plentiful, and that one or two of the honorary patrons of the club will be present. There will be a feature as yet untitled at smokers at McGill which will probably add greatly to the success of the evening. In any event, the entertainment and refreshment ends of the affair will be all that can be expected. The social part is up to the members.

It is not the intention of the executive to furnish such continuous entertainment that the members will have little or no time to get acquainted, yet it is not their purpose to let the evening lose interest for even the quietest and most retiring ownshipper.

ROOTERS' CLUB PREPARES FOR BIG VICTORY

Large Number Attend But More Support Needed.

PEP AND VIGOR.

Final Touches To Be Put On Next Friday.

With characteristic lightning and speed, the "Thundering Thousand" held another of their ho-downs at the Union yesterday afternoon. The practice was a success as far as quality of the yells went, but there were only 400 out to indulge. This was a rather poor showing when one thinks of the important part left to the Rooters in the coming game. But the vigor and pep of the crew out augured well for a successful grand slam on Saturday.

The afternoon started off with Joe and Teedles on the poop-deck scouring the landscape for men. The practice was scheduled for Strathcona Hall, but a flaw in the arrangements had it at 12 noon, that the afore-mentioned rendezvous was going to be occupied. Thus the old skippers were cast upon a sea of trouble, and finally after sounding out everywhere possible, the Union was located. Thus the gang had to be directed there at 5 bells, and the act—just as the man in the nest sounded a quarter past.

The band, that non-union without pay band of satellites, was there en masse, and after a few minutes of fog signal sounding, they finally unisonized, and the whelps were away.

The songs were given first choice while the voices were clear, and finally the yells and moans were pulled off. Each one was tried out a couple of times, and the new ones added found favor with the crew, containing just enough foam to show up well.

Section D is reserved for Saturday's game, and providing the weather is fair, there is bound to be some smooth sailing. The programme of yells and songs is the best yet—the new ones just making things spicier enough to liven up the proceedings. Everyone will be out to the big game. The next practice is Friday night—the time and place to be announced later.

A special feature at the game will be the publicity given the Campaign Fund. The Rooters are sparing no pains to see that the fund propaganda is brought before all present, and has consequently arranged an interesting programme with this in view.

Keep Friday next, from 5 to 6.15 open, as it will be the best practice, and everyone is expected out to put the final sting into the good old yells.

God Save the Rooters' Club.

 MED. UNION REPRESENTATIVES.

Owing to activity in the Union, the election of Med. Representatives on the House Committee which was to have been held to-day, has been postponed. Ballotting will take place in the New Medical Building on Friday, November 5th.

FIRST DEBATE OF THE YEAR FINE SUCCESS

Law Defeats Arts On Question Of Prohibition.

MANY PRESENT.

Audience Had A Lively Discussion After the Debate.

The opening debate of the "Lit" was held in the Union last night and was a great success. A large and enthusiastic audience was present and followed the arguments presented for and against Prohibition with keen interest. Arts defended Prohibition, but were defeated by the Law students by the score of 181 points to 168 points. The victory of the Law students was due mainly to the greater ease and fluency with which they delivered their addresses. The affirmative side presented stronger arguments, but their delivery was much weaker than that of their opponents, and this important factor led to their defeat.

Mr. Peterson opened the debate for the affirmative. He stated that the subject for debate could be viewed from ethical and from economic standpoints, and that he would confine himself to the ethical side of the question. He reminded his opponents that the subject referred to Prohibition in Canada alone, and that as Canada was a young nation, and as her future could be moulded easily, it was only fair to give her a chance to develop herself to the best of her ability. He drew a very forcible picture of Canada with and without Prohibition, and left the audience to decide whether they preferred the squalor that follows in the footsteps of liquor or the better living conditions that exist under Prohibition.

Mr. Hays then spoke for the negative. He followed the argument that Prohibition destroyed personal liberty, and went on to state that in provinces and countries where Prohibition was in force it really was ineffective; that it produced criminals and turned poor men to drugs. He read a very interesting letter from the warden of Kingston Penitentiary. This letter showed that Prohibition had not cut down the number of inmates in the penitentiary, and the judges laid great importance on this letter that Mr. Hays had taken the trouble to acquire.

Mr. Hays held that as Prohibition had proved to be somewhat of a failure, people should be educated as to the harm of excessive use of liquor. He concluded by saying that the people of Canada should not be coerced into Prohibition by the United States.

Mr. O'Hagan then spoke feelingly for the affirmative side, and dealt with the economic side of the question. He said that Canada was in a state of transition following the war, and that harmony should exist between the different parts forming her population. He said that labor and capital were continually at loggerheads, and that the liquor traffic was at the basis of this discord.

INFORMAL WILL BE HELD SOON

Tickets On Sale Early Next Week.

The informal dance held in the Union on the 29th of October was an unqualified success. The Union House Committee has decided to hold another on the 12th instant.

It is quite needless to go into involved details of these dances. Every one who was at the last one will want to attend on the 12th, and those who were not have doubtless heard enough about the quality of the floor, of the orchestra, and especially of the refreshments, to make them want to secure tickets.

Admission will again be strictly limited to 150 couples, and tickets will be on sale at the beginning of next week. The manager of the cafeteria will again be in charge of catering, and a good orchestra has been secured. Full details will be run in an early issue.

 She—"Yes, but what would the chaperones say?"

Carat is the standard by which precious stones and gold are weighed. For instance, Gold said to be 22 carats fine should contain 22 parts of gold, 1 part of silver and 1 of copper.

"Sterling" is the standard for Silver. An article stamped "sterling" means true weight and fineness.

Fit-Reform is the standard of tailoring. The Fit-Reform label means as much to a Suit or Overcoat as "24K" means to gold or "sterling" means to silver.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1920.

A REGRETTABLE OVERSIGHT

One of the most satisfactory results of McGill's present financial campaign has been the wide publicity given to the work carried on within her walls and the consequent increase of interest manifested therein by the public at large. The attractive and eminently readable literature which has been prepared and circulated has proved no less interesting to the present student than to the former graduate. There has been a remarkable ignorance on the part of most of us as to the ambitious schemes and far-sighted projects upon which McGill stands ready to embark once the all-necessary funds have been obtained, and a proper realization of the progressive policy which the university has mapped out cannot fail to awaken in every student increased pride in his Alma Mater, which promises to fulfil, in no uncertain manner, her high destiny as one of the world's great universities.

In a recent issue of a city paper, an estimate of appropriations was published showing the approximate allotment to the several faculties of the five million-dollars which McGill hopes to obtain during the next year. These appropriations for the most part were so apposite and so necessary that one noticed with something of a shock, that no provision whatsoever had been made for any extension or improvement in the Faculty of Law. Such an omission is all the more inexplicable when one has due reference to the present pitiful inadequacy of the accommodation and facilities afforded to the faculty. At present it is housed within a semi-detached residence on University street which might easily be taken for the residence of the head gardener were it not for a shame-faced sign upon the window proclaiming to all and sundry that there one of McGill's oldest faculties had found a habitation and a home. With the present enrolment of law students almost one hundred and fifty, the conditions obtaining in the so-called lecture-rooms can be more readily imagined than described. Suffice it to say that they are wholly unsatisfactory and quite without parallel in any other department of McGill.

That the total disregard of the requirements of the law faculty is unjustified is further shown by the developments which have taken place therein during the past few years. Recently a course in common law has been organized which enables the student who wishes to practise outside of this province to do so, and this course has now received official recognition. This is in addition to the course in civil law for those who intend to practise at the Quebec Bar, which has been maintained since the inception of the Faculty and has been followed by some of the brightest legal luminaries in the Province to-day. This opportunity of studying, side by side, the two great systems of jurisprudence which, between them, now govern nearly the whole of the civilized world, places McGill's law faculty in a unique position. Our situation here in Montreal makes it possible for these two great systems to be studied in actual operation and compared, and it is McGill's opportunity to provide the necessary facilities for this object, the utility of which cannot well be over-estimated. Arrangements have been made whereby the high quality of teaching and the finished scholarship that such an opportunity demands have been provided for the work of instruction, but the obstacle of accommodation remains an insuperable one which must inevitably stultify the most earnest efforts towards progress.

With a thousand and one demands made or to be made upon McGill's future endowment, it is perhaps only to be expected that some of these demands should remain unsatisfied. That the claims of the Faculty of Law, however, should be ignored in such thorough fashion is a circumstance deplorable in the extreme, and it is indeed to be hoped that the tentative appropriations already made will be revised and some provision made for the furtherance of the worthy ideals of McGill's Faculty of Law.

MACCABEAN MEETING.

The second meeting of the Maccabean Circle opened with the item brought up by the Intercollegiate Memorial, to undertake a $50,000 campaign for the Jewish students in Europe, who are at present in a very pitiable condition, in which the Jewish students of McGill are expected to do their share.

This motion was supported by Mr. Louis Fitch, B.C.L., a McGill graduate, who explained the necessity of the immediate aid which is requested, and indicated the pitiable conditions and difficulties the Jewish students in Europe are undergoing.

Mr. A. J. Levinson, M.A., who is also a McGill graduate, then spoke on the same subject.

An entertaining violin solo, in which H. Ballon was accompanied by E. Bassin, then followed.

DELTA SIGMA SOCIETY MET WEDNESDAY

Prof. Sandwell Spoke On "Art."

FAIR ATTENDANCE.

Subject Of the Afternoon Treated In Masterly Manner.

Any R. V. C. Undergraduate who was unable to attend the meeting of the Delta Sigma Society yesterday afternoon has certainly missed a most interesting and instructive address; such a student will do well to amend her ways and come to every meeting in future, for if all the gatherings are as successful as yesterday's no one will want to miss them.

Mr. Sandwell, of the Department of Economics, spoke on "Art and the Community." His treatment of the subject showed that he understands it thoroughly both as an economist and at the same time as a true lover of art. He showed the economic value, as it was, of real art to the community, in that it betters and inspires those who contemplate and appreciate it. The conception of art as a collection of paintings, literary works or statuary, removed their original surroundings to a museum and existing from past time is a dreary and wrong conception. This, unfortunately, Mr. Sandwell fears is the misconception of the young Canadians; he may rest assured, however, that any "young Canadians" who were present yesterday will no longer entertain such an idea, even if in the past they have done so. On the contrary, "Art," said Mr. Sandwell, "is a force engaged in the production of new works of art, and all past art is of no value except in as much as it stimulates us to further production." And since art is an actual living force, it is, the speaker pointed out, the portrayal of national, local and community affairs. Therefore we may think in future of art as of a living tree which has its roots in the soil of the community and whose fruits bear witness of the character, life and customs of that community.

But, unlike the fruits of most desirable trees, those of art should not be a transferrable commodity, neither should they undergo any deterioration which other fruits, of necessity, do in transportation. This excellent comparison shows Mr. Sandwell's point of view as a true economist.

Another misconception which was clearly disproved was the idea that all artists worked with an eye to the effect of their work on posterity. In following up the comparison of art and the living tree, the main function of the tree was seen to be its shelter and its fruit, that of attracting and pleasing, a distant onlooker being merely a secondary function. So with art; Mr. Sandwell pointed out from this, that the impulse of the true artist was to express in tangible form, either in painting, sculpture, writing, music or any other art, an idea or sentiment, for the better understanding of his immediate companions among whom he lived. In order to do this he must express his idea in terms of local interest, thus the main function of production is for the community, and so the work of art portrays types and characters of the immediate time and place. At the same time, just as the tree on the landscape is pleasing from a distance, so real art attracts onlookers and admirers of other countries. Mr. Sandwell emphasized this point by tribute to the sketches of Drummond and Buxton, who have made pictures of the life of their surroundings so attractive. Having established the real function on conception of art, he then proceeded to point out how necessary it was to facilitate the production of our own Canadian artistic talent; and here, since it is in dramatic talent that Mr. Sandwell was most keenly interested, he used this form of art as the example to show how great are our possibilities in this country.

According to Mr. Sandwell, if we set about it properly, we can make great success of Canadian dramatic art. But there is such a lack of all necessary mechanism and required habitation that at present the production of Canadian drama is very hampered. This is partly due, he believes to the lack of self expression of the artists; the theatre has lost its grip, in an intellectual sense, on the people, since it has become "a dominion-wide business institution," and has lost its local interest. There is a detachment from nature, he claims, because of the lack of facilities for the production of Canadian plays of Canadian life for Canadian people.

"Provided the necessary mechanism and habitation and provide the public with portraits of its own life and it will show a conscious desire to see it," thus, says Mr. Sandwell, we will have our own Canadian drama. The same holds for all branches of art; if we would increase our knowledge and understanding of ourselves in our own community. After such a plea, a new interest has been awakened in the Community Players, of which Mr. Sandwell is an active member.

After Mr. Sandwell's forceful and inspiring address, refreshments were served. The members of the Society had then an opportunity of meeting in a very pleasant and informal manner the guests who so kindly turned out to support the meeting. We may say that it always adds greatly to the success of the meetings when we feel that the professors and their wives are with us at our gatherings.

During the tea Miss Fielders and Miss E. Cox rendered instrumental and vocal solos, which were greatly enjoyed.

The annual Freshman-Sophomore debate followed, in which the Freshmen were successful.

H. Bathaw, Arts '24, starred in this part of the programme.

After a short discussion on various subjects, the meeting was adjourned.

To the Editor, "McGill Daily."

Dear Sir,—

In view of the recent correspondence with reference to the "Cosmopolitan" magazine, the following, clipped from last night's papers, may be interesting:—

New York, Nov. 3.—(From our own Correspondent).—William Randolph Hearst, in his New York Evening Journal to-day not only excels himself by printing more than usually offensive cartoon against Britain, but he turns his attention to Canada.

Concerning the Dominion, Hearst has the following to say:

"During the first two weeks of October Canadians sent five million bushels of wheat into the United States, competing directly, of course, with American farmers. Rather a nice situation for Canada, able to use this country and the farmers of this country as a dumping ground whenever it is convenient, and able in war to get for Canada and 'the dear old mother country' wheat raised by American farmers at price limited by the American Government. No wonder many emigrate from the United States into Canada.

"It is hoped that Harding, during his administration, will do something to make the buying power of the United States profitable to Americans first, Canadians and other outsiders afterwards."

In the cartoon Uncle Sam is pictured as a winner of a "knockout" boxing bout. He is saying "This is the third time I've licked that guy—1776, '12, and now." Wearing a black eye and belted as "League of Nations," John Bull is dazedly sitting on the floor saying: "Ow bah jove I never seem to get started." A member of the audience refers to Britain as "Oh, Watta bum."

Yours very truly,

T. L. BULLOCK.

New plays, which the wily Shag has worked out for the undoing of the Blue and White, were practised against the other squads by the seniors, and accounted for all that they are intended to. With Cope at right inside working with big Jeff Notman, and Ambridge fitting in on the other wing with Captain "Dud" Ross, the line presented a formidable aggregation. The shake-up leaves Murphy as a first-starting spare, a player who can be counted on the jump into the game and start at top speed from the beginning.

Flanagan did not work out with the squad yesterday, although he was on deck and gambled around the field, Russell, Carroll and Little filling in the half line. "Flin" will be ready for the match against the Blue and White, and will most likely be started along with Carroll and Russell. Cope received a slight whack yesterday which incapacitated him for a time, but it is fully expected that he will be going as strong as ever to-day.

This afternoon Coach Shaughnessy will put the squad through its last hard training before the big event, for on Friday the team will only indulge in a light signal practice. As yesterday, the first squad will stack up against the two junior teams. In this both the Intermediates and Juniors are benefitting by excellent training for their fixtures on Saturday. Marsh Kern and his band of second team players will tackle the Queen's seconds at Kingston, while the seniors are playing here; while Eddie Crain and his troop of thirds will proceed to mix them up on the Bishop's College fourteen in a game called for 10.30 a.m. on Saturday.

it," thus, says Mr. Sandwell, we will have our own Canadian drama. The same holds for all branches of art; if we would increase our knowledge and understanding of ourselves in our own community. After such a plea, a new interest has been awakened in the Community Players, of which Mr. Sandwell is an active member.

GYMNASTS TO RE-ORGANIZE FOR SESSION

Possibility Of Intercollegiate Meet This Year

AT UNION, 8 P.M.

Meeting To Be Held For Election Of Officers and Other Business.

Numerous enquiries have been made about the possibilities for gymnastic work of a more advanced character than the ordinary P. T. moted out impartially to all first and second year men. The Gymnastic Club, one of McGill's regular athletic clubs, has for some years taken care of this branch in a most able manner.

The club will hold its organization meeting at 5 p.m., Friday, November 5th, in the lounge room of the Union. The election of officers for the year will be held and several matters of importance will be brought up for consideration. It is important that a full quorum should be present to discuss matters which are for the welfare of all, and all men interested in voluntary or advanced gymnastics are specially urged to attend this meeting.

It was indeed unfortunate that last year intercollegiate competition was held up owing to the inability of some of the other universities to send a team to compete. However, it is hoped that this year will prove more favorable, and that a gymnastic meet will be arranged with Toronto at least, if not with Queen's and R.M.C. In the matter of coaching, the club is indeed well favored, for Dad Lamb has three capable instructors at his back to give the club any assistance they require.

However the prospect of an intercollegiate competition may turn out, there is a very interesting trophy within the College to be competed for. The Wicksteed Medals, in silver and bronze, and the Harvey Cup, have always been keenly contested in the past and this year should prove no exception. The Wicksteed is a competition comprising many phases of all-round gymnastics, and the requisite training for such a contest tends to build up a strong supple physique in the contestants. All those, then, that are interested in the Gymnastic Club are requested to turn out at the Union to-morrow.

NOMINATIONS IN FOR MED. BALLOTING

Ballot Will Be In Old Medical Building

ON FRIDAY, NOV. 5th.

Three Men Nominated—So Balloting Will Be Brisk.

Owing to the great activity in the Union in preparation for Saturday's football game, it is necessary to hold the election for Medical Representatives to the Union House Committee in the New Medical Building. This necessitates a delay of one day, so balloting will take place on Friday, November 5th, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Nominations have been received for the following men:

HARRIERS HAD GOOD TURNOUT LAST EVENING

Many New Men Join the Ranks.

FINE SHOWING MADE.

Run To-Day For Those Unable to Turn Out Yesterday.

One of the best attended and most successful Harrier runs of the season was held yesterday afternoon when all the veteran Harriers were again in harness, as well as much new material.

The men divided into two parties, one party going over the long run and the other party taking the short run. In spite of the cold weather and wind, very good time was made. Everything points to a most exciting meet next Monday.

Among the men who showed up very well to-day were McNider, Simpson, Jamieson, Legg, Stephens, Finley, Desbarats, Elkington and Creelman. Several others also made the run in very good time, and should put up a very stiff fight next Monday, when the Inter-Faculty run is to be held.

A great many men were not able to turn out for the run yesterday, so those men are asked to be on hand for a run to-day at 4.30 p.m. This run is just for the men who were not able to turn out yesterday.

To-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be another run. This will be the last run of the week for those men who turn out Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

By keeping up two schedules of runs, every man is able to take in the runs. Thus, one party will run Monday, Wednesday and Friday, the other party will run on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The time is always 4.15 sharp. So, men are asked to be on hand at 4 o'clock.

These runs are getting very popular for men who are looking for a half an hour's good healthy outdoor exercise three or four times a week, and their example is to be greatly encouraged.

SCIENCE WINS RUGBY GAME BY ONE POINT

Game Very Fast and Play Interesting.
SCORE: 1 TO 0.

No Points Secured Till Last Quarter.

Sharp at three o'clock yesterday afternoon the old campus suddenly became a scene of activity. The hour had arrived for the second battle between the combined team of Arts, Commerce and Law and the team of the Faculty of Science. It was also the third game in Inter-Faculty Rugby. Members of each team started to trot onto the field, and passers-by stopped to watch. By quarter to four all the members of both teams were upon the field, and all seemed ready for the fray. However, officials had to be secured, and after some argument, Mr. Quackenbush accepted the position of referee and Mr. Lyall that of judge of play. At five minutes to four the whistle blew and the game was on.

The game as a whole was very interesting, the plays being fast and exciting, and the result was always in doubt. The teams were very evenly matched both in speed and skill, and it is hard to say that one was better than the other. Buck plays were very much in evidence, and in these the A. C. L. team had the advantage. This was due to the stellar playing of Amaron, who made many a brilliant run for his team. He also proved an excellent kicker, and was without doubt the star of the day. J. R. Rutherford also played a fine game for A. C. L., and the team as a whole showed a good brand of Rugby. Jackson was the chief booter for Science, and to him is due the honor of securing the only point during the whole game. Moseley also was very useful and supplied excitement by many a nice run. The Science team certainly put up a good game, and their victory was a well-earned one. The play was very equal and changed from one end of the field to the other with great rapidity. There was no scoring till the last quarter, when Amaron was forced down for a rouge.

The game, by quarters, was as follows:
First quarter—Science kicked off and Amaron received the kick and made a thirty-five yard run. A. C. L. gained yards on bucks. Science got ball by offside. Exchange of kicks. Moseley and Davies made good bucks. Science kicked on last down, but soon regained ball. Moseley made thirty-yard run. Quarter ended with Science bucking on the A. C. L. five-yard line.
Second quarter—Science lost ball two feet from touch line. Rutherford and Amaron made good runs. Amaron kicked over Science line, but play was spoilt on account of offside. Half-time. Score, 0-0.
Third quarter was very even and was mainly a series of kicks. Ball was booted by Science, fumbled by A. C. L., and rolled over touch line of A. C. L. Science man was tackled while not in possession of ball, and A. C. L. team was penalized by ball being given to Science on A. C. L. five-yard line.
Last quarter — Science failed to gain yards. Jackson tried to kick, but was blocked. Science recovered ball and Jackson kicked for rouge. Long run by Amaron. Amaron kicked over Science line twice, but both his kicks were returned. Time called. Final score. Science, 1; A. C. L., 0.

LEND A HAND!
The chance is coming next week for the appreciative men of McGill to show that they realize a real and significant effort and want to broaden and extend the scope of that effort. All Canada is going to work for McGill's physical expansion — all McGill is going to be asked to work for McGill's moral expansion by internal financial effort. Details later.

E. L. C.
The subject of the weekly lecture of the Montreal Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, at 176 Mansfield street, at 8.15 p.m. this evening, is "Modern Superheater Practice," by Mr. H. B. Oatley. All students, whether members or not, are invited to attend, and are urged to participate in the discussion which follows every lecture, at least to the extent of asking questions. The discussion is frequently more interesting than the lecture because of the special points that are brought out therein. Students need not be backward in asking for further information at lectures; older engineers are always pleased to give to younger men the benefit of their experience, and will naturally be favorably impressed by the fact that McGill students are keen enough to show their interest by asking questions. It is only the very poor or the very good lecturer who is never asked questions, and the asking is usually considered as a compliment. So if any of you have anything to say, get up and say it.

THE SENIOR PLAY.
A meeting to which Seniors of all Faculties are invited, to discuss plans for the forthcoming Senior Play, will be held in the Common Room of the Royal Victoria College, on Friday next at 5 p.m.

ON FURLOUGH FROM FAR EAST

McGill Grad Will Recount His Experiences To-Night.
Many at McGill and in the city will be pleased by the return to his native haunts of Mr. Herbert F. Thompson, M.A., a graduate of McGill in 1912, who has since that time been engaged in Y.M.C.A. work in China, and is now home on furlough. The days since 1912 have been stirring ones the world over, but nowhere, perhaps, have there been greater changes than in China—waking as she is from the sleep of centuries.

Mr. Thompson, who has been engaged in boy's work in Canton, and who has already made a favorable impression by his brief address in the Hall on Sunday last, will tell something of his experiences and of conditions in the East at a meeting to-night at 7.30.

At the same meeting some aspects of the Indian situation will be presented by Mr. Leonard Dixon, M.A., a graduate of Toronto University in 1910. Mr. Dixon has made an enviable record for himself as head of the Y.M.C.A. units which accompanied the British forces in the Mesopotamian campaign. His work in India is marked by corresponding success. The students at McGill and city friends will be assured of an hour well spent if they plan to hear these men. The meeting is open to all comers.

McGill has its own stake in "The Changing East," as the students here contribute largely to the support of two McGill men—Brooks and Brown—in an important outpost in Ceylon. It is one of the happy thoughts about McGill Y.M.C.A. that its work is continuous, for "when the doors of Strathcona Hall close every evening the doors of the Y.M.C.A. in Ceylon are opening for the day's work." The addresses on Thursday will, therefore, be of lively interest to McGill men.

COMM. SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

Dr. Villard, Mr. Sandwell and Mr. McCulloch Elected As Board Of Advisors.

The Commercial Society held a special meeting at 1 o'clock yesterday to elect a vice-president and a board of advisors. Ed. O'Brien was elected vice-president. The new board of advisors were elected and will be composed of Dr. Villard, Mr. B. K. Sandwell and Mr. McCulloch. It was decided to have a fee of $2.00 this year to offset the increased costs of refreshments and running expenses.

The men of all three years will be approached regarding membership in the Society, during the present week. Those intending to join are requested to come prepared with their fee in order to save time and not make the collector cover the ground twice.

Consider carefully what you are getting for this purely nominal fee. First of all, you get the privilege of attending all the meetings of the Society for the present session, and listening to talks of vital interest to Commerce men, delivered by business men in positions of responsibility. These men are able to give straight from the shoulder talks that give the Commerce student a new conception of the meaning of "Commerce." Secondly the social aspect is not to be ignored. This is a club primarily in its character, and a friendly chat over the refreshments is an integral part of every meeting, which brings me to the refreshments. These alone are well worth the fee of $2.00, and are of a very high order, consistent with the Commercial Society.

The next meeting is to be held in a fortnight. If arrangements can be made for accommodation at the Union. In any case, watch the "Daily" and the Notice Board for further announcements.

THEATRES

NEW GRAND.

Theatre-goers seems to have never had enough of George M. Cohan's successful comedy-drama, "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," a picturization of which has just been released through the First National with Charles Ray in the title role.

This tremendous popular piece was first written by Mr. Cohan for Miss Fay Templeton, then at the zenith of her career and had its first stage presentation with her and Victor Moore in the leading roles, at the Southern Theatre in Columbus, Ohio, in August, 1904. Three days later this piece was taken to the Colonial Theatre in Chicago, where it ran for many weeks, being the means of saving this theatre as a place of amusement, as it had formerly been the ill-fated Iroquois, and Chicago theatre-goers had not forgotten the terrible holocaust that had resulted in the loss of so many of their dear ones. Following its engagement at this theatre, "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," played all of the prominent cities of this country, including New York, and everywhere it proved a tremendous success. Then, when it had apparently outlived its usefulness, Mr. Cohan shelved it.

But eight years later—in 1912—the demand for its revival was so great that Mr. Cohan decided to again put it on. This time he assumed the role taken by Victor Moore, while Miss Sally Fisher handled the one formerly played by Miss Templeton. Again the piece was a notable success and again it played a long and prosperous season.

And now in pictures, it bids fair to even beat the records achieved by it on the spoken stage and Charles Ray has proven to be more than worthy of assuming the role so splendidly handled by Victor Moore and George M. Cohan.

"Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" is being shown all week at the New Grand.

MEETING OF VOLUNTEERS

Record Attendance Last Night In Strathcona Hall.

Last evening in Strathcona Hall the Student Volunteer Band held the most successful gathering of the season, with a record attendance.

The hour was spent in considering various matters of importance now confronting the organization and in outlining the course to be followed during the coming season.

The executive expressed its favor and welcome to the plan to have all interested in mission work to the weekly gathering of the band which is held every Wednesday evening at 7:30 in Strathcona Hall.

The meetings of the club last but one hour. Part of each month will be spent in studying the biographies of great missionaries.

LECTURES IN SCIENCE BLDG. ON HIGHWAYS

By Dominion Commissioner Of Roads.

EIGHT IN ALL.

First Delivered Last Night, Was Followed By Discussion.

The first of a series of eight evening lectures in the Engineering Building, on Highways, was delivered last night by Mr. Campbell, the Dominion Commissioner of Roads. In which he treated, by way of an introduction to the course, the economic aspect of the Canadian Highway problem.

The lecturer pointed out the necessity for a system of highways to extend and amplify our present system of railways and waterways, and showed how practically everything that was moved by these methods had, at some time or other, to be moved by road. He pointed out how quickly it was realized that road construction was a matter that was too large and to extensive for municipalities to handle, and that the Federal Government had to assume control of the co-ordination of provincial plans. Of the 260,000 miles of road in Canada, 17,000 miles are included in the present scheme for improvement, and care is being taken that roads are not being built at random by provinces that do not take a sufficiently broad view of the work.

He pointed out the necessity for proper engineering, direction to ensure that the necessarily large sums of money that would be required for this work should be properly spent and not wasted on carelessly or improperly built or located work.

The necessity for a system of roads branching out from cities, getting less and less expensive as the distance became greater and traffic less was pointed out, together with the excellent suggestion that sample stretches of gravel roads be built in various parts of the country to demonstrate to the people that such work was too difficult for local control, and to show that a good gravel or earth road was among those most difficult to construct. He pointed out the necessity for maintenance work, and described the policy of financing the work by the Dominion Government.

In the discussion that followed, a few further points were brought out in reply to various questions. Among them the fact that road haulage of certain classes of freight was economically possible, under ordinary circumstances, for distances of about 50 miles, at a cost about half that of rail transportation. It should be particularly noted that this estimate includes the fixed and operating charges on the road used, an item which is all too frequently forgotten in the publication of such figures.

Highway bridges are being designed for 12-ton loads, though two unusual orders for bridges for 20-ton loads are being filled.

The thanks of the audience were conveyed to the lecturer by Mr. French, and if the amount of applause that followed was any indication of the opinion of the audience, it can be asserted that the lecture was greatly appreciated.

It is to be hoped that the almost entire absence of Science students other than those in fourth year Civil was due to the counter attraction of the meeting of the "Lit" and to no other reason.

A large number of engineers from the city and vicinity were present.

About 80 Spectators Present At Game.

FINAL SCORE: 1-0.

Play Much More One-Sided Than the Score Indicated.

Last night the McGill Intermediate Water-Polo team won its second victory by defeating Maisonneuve 1-0 in a game which was more one-sided than the score indicates. About eighty spectators were present, of which fully one-half were representatives of Maisonneuve.

McGill throughout the game were on the offensive, showering shots upon Aird, the opposing goal, but the attraction of the man was so much greater than that of the empty corners of the net, that all the shots but one were stopped.

The first quarter was the only one in which Maisonneuve appeared to have a chance. During this period more shots were sent upon the McGill goal in the shallow end than upon the East-Enders, but when the quarter time change came, McGill commandeered the play and forced their opponents to have Aird to keep down the score. About two minutes before the half-time whistle blew Bastable passed to Bruker, who was submerged by Henderson in front of the nets. Henderson held him under until he considered Bruker's lungs to be full of water, but Bruker wriggled free, and coming to the surface shot the ball into the net for the only tally of the game.

From this period on, McGill had the game their own way. Bastable swam fast, and would have added a few points to McGill's score if he had placed his shots more effectively. Foss, on the defence, always got the ball when it was near our goal, and cleared—usually emerging from the surface with a blue-capped Maisonneuve on his back. Laidley, at centre, was almost the fastest man in the water, getting the throw-in every time the teams raced for it. Winters, the other defence man, was usually in the right place when necessary, but once or twice he swam to the forward end of the tank and left Foss to look after two men.

If a little more precision is developed in shooting by the forwards, McGill will have a very strong Intermediate team for their next game, as they are speedy, in good condition, and possess a reliable goal in Walters, who stopped many difficult shots.

Labor movements wished to better the condition of the low class wage earner, he said, but Prohibition was the one thing that would better the condition of the laborer. He drew a striking picture of the drunkard's home and family, and ended with a strong appeal for Prohibition.

Mr. Dillon followed for the negative. He explained in a forcible manner that the negative stood for temperance and moderation, but entirely disagreed with the theory of Prohibition. He referred to the times when Greece and Rome were flourishing, and told that wine was the most important beverage of the time. He concluded with the witty remark that "An Englishman's home is his castle, and the spirit lies in the cellar."

Werry then took the floor, and proceeded to smash his opponents' arguments with a few strong facts. Coaches and physical instructors agreed, he said, in prohibiting alcohol to athletes, because a man cannot drink and keep in good physical condition. Insurance companies all recognize drinkers as great risks and raise their rates accordingly. The liquor traffic, he said, was the basis of our slums and red light districts. He said that liquor decreased efficiency, and that even prominent men who used alcohol attested to the harm of liquor. He said, in answer to an argument put forward by the negative, that Prohibition, where it was in force, was the wish of the majority and not of the minority. He concluded by saying that many brilliant men had been ruined through drink.

Mr. Bairre closed the debate for the negative. He sympathized with his opponents when they deplored the crimes arising from the liquor traffic, but, he added impressively, it was the abuse, and not the use of liquor that caused these deplorable circumstances. He said that temperance, not Prohibition, would solve the liquor problem, and how Prohibition drove many high officials to the lucrative pursuit of smuggling. In conclusion, he said that the enforcement of Prohibition was unjust, undemocratic and demoralizing.

Mr. Peterson, in rebuttal, said that Prohibition was the wish of the majority, and that, therefore, it accorded with the principles of democracy. His opponents had extolled the benefits of temperance, but he claimed that we cannot distinguish between the temperate use and the abuse of liquor. His opponents had stated that we are indebted to Molson's Ale for our Stadium, but, he said, Montreal is indebted to the same source for her slums.

The judges, Messrs: Chipman and Hugesson, then retired to form their decision.

An interesting discussion of the subject was carried on by the audience, and many strange and unprintable thoughts were brought to light. The judges then returned, and he-fore giving the result of their deliberations, they criticized in a constructive and genial manner the delivery and the material of the debaters.

The question was voted upon by the members present, and the negative side won by a good majority.

Great interest was shown by all present, and present indications point to a very successful year for the "Lit."
